Pancake Breakfast Benefits Jene Wah Programs

In one fell swoop, start your weekend with a great breakfast and help out Jene Wah!

The agency serving the community's elderly residents is hosting a pancake breakfast on Saturday, May 18. Breakfast service begins at 8 a.m. and continues until 11 a.m.

For just $10, diners will feast on pancakes with strawberries and ham, and can also have coffee, tea, or fruit juice. Second servings of pancakes are yours for the asking. You can eat on the premises or order a take-out breakfast. All those purchasing tickets are eligible to enter the drawing for some great door prizes.

This is Jene Wah's first pancake breakfast outing, created to help offset the funding cuts the agency experienced this past year. A drop in United Way funding as well as donations and grants have cut into the services the agency provides. Monies raised from the breakfast will be devoted entirely to benefit the seniors, many who depend on Jene Wah as their primary outlet for social and community interaction. Attorney Clarence Chan and Realtors Steve and Lilian Gong have contributed to underwriting the breakfast.

Tickets are available at Jene Wah, 238 E. Church Street, 463-7654, or from any board member (Bonnie Lew, Judy Hong, Doris Go, Bing Hui, Desmond Li, Carmen Wong, Henry Chow and Linda Valadez).

For information, call Jene Wah, 463-7654 or Breakfast Chair, Gladys Ikeda, 481-8726.

Chinese Historical Society of America

On May 11, the CHSA Museum is presenting immigration experience interactive programs in the Kimball Gallery of the de Young Museum, with de Young Artist Fellow Lenora Lee.

During the month of May, the de Young Museum will showcase the work-in-progress of multi-disciplinary dance artist Lenora Lee as part of the museum's Artist Fellows Program. A San Francisco native who is deeply rooted in the Asian American communities of San Francisco and New York City, Lee will reveal her process of creating narrative, interdisciplinary dance pieces that give voice to the experiences of Asian Americans.

About Lenora Lee

For the past 15 years, Lee has worked as a dancer, choreographer, and artistic director in San Francisco, Los Angeles, and New York. She brings diverse training to her performances, with a BA in dance from UCLA, experience as a Japanese taiko drumming performer with the celebrated San Francisco ensemble Genryu Arts; knowledge of karate from Enshin Karate, South San Francisco Dojo; and training in Chinese forms with Kei Lun Martial Arts. She has also pursued private study in dance composition, contact improvisation, Afro-Brazilian dance, modern dance, and ballet, among other disciplines.
